

Three Named to Plan Norris Dam Model Town

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 18 (AP). Three consultants to aid in planning the model town for workers at Norris Dam were named today by Earle S. Draper, director of land planning and housing for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

They are Henry V. Hubbard, professor of regional planning at Harvard University, who will be known as consultant in town planning; Eliel Saarinen, of Michigan, architectural consultant, and Tracy B. Augur, of Detroit, Mich., special consultant in community planning.

Shoe Worker Strike Holds

Federal Labor Officials Strive for Peace.

Brockton, Mass., Sept. 18 (AP).—A majority of Brockton's 8,000 shoe workers remained on strike tonight as Federal labor officials strove to reach a decision agreeable to rival unions.

Senator Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board at Washington, said the legal questions involved required careful study and a few days more would be required before a decision could be reached.

More than 6,000 workers employed in 15 factories walked out today after rejecting a proposal of the National Labor Board to work pending a final settlement of the dispute.
